ONLY ONE

The Record in Barre Is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney trouble and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Barre citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

C. A. Churchill, contractor and builder, of 35 Merchant street, Barre, Vt., says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got from E. A. Drown, druggist, through our Barre newspapers in a statement given eight years ago. I used them at that time and was so greatly benefited that I kept on taking them until the symptoms of kidney complaint and weakness of the back and loins disappeared. It is now as much pleasure to recommend this valuable remedy as it was at the time when they relieved me of my pain and suffering. I have on several occasions used Doan's Kidney Pills since then and always with the same good results. They are certainly worthy of endorsement and I have advised many friends and acquaintances to use them."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

"Necessity the Mother."

There was a crowded meeting in Des Moines. The day was so hot that the great audience could hardly breathe. Suddenly a quiet but determined looking man surprised everyone by exclaiming: "I want to put a question to the speaker."

"Well, sir," good naturedly answered the orator of the day, "I am here to answer questions, go ahead."

"Then," queried the man, "What did Lincoln say in 1862?"

"An absurd question," responded the speaker, "Lincoln said a great many things in 1862."

"Never mind that," testily continued the man who had interrupted. "Tell me what he said in 1863?"

At this juncture the audience began to show signs of displeasure, but the quiet man proved irresistible.

"I again demand," he yelled, "to be told what Lincoln said in 1863?"

This proved too much, so the man was seized and ejected. A friend went with him, and when they were outside said:

"What on earth induced you to make such a fool of yourself?"

"Because," smilingly explained the quiet but determined man, "it was very hot and close. I could not breathe. I could not move. It was the only way to get out."—Pittsburg Public Ledger.

SCHMITZ MUST

FACE MUSIC

He Must Face Trial in Dunne's Court

A CHANGE IS DENIED HIM

Charges of Bias Are Answered by Henry Spreckels, Too, Refutes the Accusations of Mayor, Who Has Gained Courage.

San Francisco, May 23.—Mayor Schmitz Tuesday made his appearance in court on the charge of extorting money from local French restaurateurs, with the complicity of Abraham Ruef. Assistant District Attorney Henry read affidavits sworn to by himself and Judge Dunne denying categorically the allegation made in the affidavits filed last Saturday by the defense in support of the motion for a substitution of trial judge.

In the affidavits of the defense it was alleged among other things that Rudolph Spreckels and the men who are associated with him as financial guarantors of the prosecution are in reality carrying out a conspiracy to defraud the present municipal administration for the purpose of taking over the reins of government and of causing to be granted to themselves valuable street railway and water franchises in return for the money they have expended in the bribery graft investigation. Mr. Henry denied all the charges. At the conclusion of the reading of the affidavits Judge Dunne denied the motion for the change of trial judge.

That the court clerk is to have no part in the trial of Schmitz so far as the immediate intentions go was shown by the fact that Judge Dunne ordered that none of the 77 talemen now available shall be permitted to serve as possible jurors, except those who were summoned by the sheriff. Those who are summoned by Elisor Biggs, incidental to the Hoff proceedings, were dismissed. Subsequently Mr. Henry stated that the counsel for both sides agreed to excuse all of the sixteen jurors summoned by the sheriff. This will be done, and a new panel ordered.

RAISING CHURCH FUNDS.

The Kaffir Mix in a Lot of Fun With Their Generosity.

The gentle Kaffir when he does become Christianized has his own ideas of the best method of raising funds for the support of the "cause." From the subjoined description of a native meeting sent home by a missionary it would appear that native generosity, although of a rough and tumble character, is distinctly productive of ways and means.

"Recently I attended a native tea meeting, at which more than $12 was raised by this very poor congregation. Their way of doing it was characteristic and amusing. They paid 2 shillings to sit down to tea. Then some one would pay 3 shillings for such and such a man to be required to get up again and leave the table. The man thus assailed would pay 3s. 6d. for leave to sit down again. There was a special table at which six could sit, paying an extra shilling each for the privilege. They had just got seated when a man paid 7 shillings to clear them out, and they paid another 3 shillings to sit on, and so it went on. They arranged all this themselves, and this is their way of giving to the cause. One man had a tin of sardines. He said he would pay 2 shillings to put it over another man's head who had got himself up well in a large collar, etc.; this man paid 3 shillings to be let off, the first man 4 shillings again to do it, the other 5 shillings to escape, the first 6 shillings to do it—and did it, and, oh, the laughter and the merriment!"

The Way to Wareham.

Some young women in England have begun to dress out and out like men. They wear a long coat cut like a hunting coat, a cap, riding breeches and top boots. It is a handsome costume, and it is not immodest, but undoubtedly it attracts a good deal of attention. They have been telling in London a story about a girl who adopted this riding rig. Pulling up her horse one afternoon, she said to an artisan who was passing, "Can you tell me if this is the way to Wareham?" The man looked at her over carefully, then he touched his cap in a respectful manner and replied, "Yes, miss, yes—you seem to have got 'em on all right."

Her Loss.

Gladys—Edith is so sorry she took Herbert's ring back to price it. Penelope—Why so? Gladys—Why, the few elder said seeing Herbert hadn't been in to settle for it, as he promised, he guesses he'd keep it.

Just the Other Way.

She—Did you ever take your motor car to pieces to see how it worked? He—Well, not exactly. I have taken it to pieces to see how it didn't work.

Linoleum.

First Verger—Do you have matins at your church? Second Verger—No; we have linoleums.

Leslie, the little son of Walter Ford of Lower Cabot narrowly escaped serious injury last Tuesday afternoon while riding in the delivery team of F. A. Pike. As they were about to drive up to the residence of Edwin Gould the horse suddenly became frightened and jumped throwing Mr. Pike out and starting on a smart run down the road the little boy clinging to the wagon hanging between the wheels and body of the wagon for the distance of seventy rods being stopped by the men working on the road. Quite a gash was cut under the little boy's jaw which took several stitches to close it. Dr. Burbank dressed the wound and it is now doing well.

A Flannel Shirt.

A man to wear a flannel shirt successfully needs to have a good temper and a whole lot of boys of assorted sizes to hand it down to when it is too small for him. My experience with flannel shirts last winter is probably about the experience of most men. I had my first shirt made big enough for two ordinary men.

The first week, before being washed, it was big enough for two of me, but by rolling up the sleeves to my elbow and taking in the collar five inches I managed to wear it all right until it was dirty, when I had it washed.

After washing it was a perfect fit, the collar just right and the sleeves just long enough. For a week I enjoyed the shirt more than anything, but it had to be washed again, and after that it was no good to me. I could not button the collar and the sleeves had shrunk half way to my elbows.

I had to dispose of that shirt, but I watched its course since with much interest. First it fell to my eldest son, but only a week did he fool any with it. He is not built that way. He kindly presented it to his smaller brother, an eleven-year-old, modest little fellow, who never kicked at anything until he got that shirt. He wore it one week with many misgivings, but when it was washed again he said he would have to be excused if he wanted him to have free breathing room. He is a generous boy, and he gave the shirt to his little three-year-old nephew, my grandchild, who "complained" that it was too tight.

The last I saw of the shirt it was doing duty for the year-old baby. The next time it is washed it will be too small for a bill for the baby, and then it will be put on the dolls—the large ones at first, and then the small ones. When they get that shirt shrunk to the smallest size in the family, which is only an inch long, I shall take it to the man I bought it of, the man who told me it would not shrink, and I shall try to convince him that he is a—well, a perverter of the truth. I don't know that I can convince him of it, even with the shirt as a silent witness, but I'm going to try.—Tit-Bits.
